THE OHIO ALUMNUS

Published by the
Ohio University Alumni Association
Monthly, October to June, inclusive

Entered as Second Class Matter, October 3, 1923, at the Post Office at Athens, Ohio, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

Vol. XXVI      APRIL, 1948      No. 7

Editor.....CLARK E. WILLIAMS, '21

ANNUAL DUES for membership in the Ohio University Alumni Association are $3.00, of which $2.00 is for a year's subscription to The Ohio Alumnus. Memberships are renewable on October first of each year.

DISCONTINUANCE—If any subscriber wishes his Alumnus discontinued at the expiration of his subscription, notice to that effect should be sent with the subscription, or at its expiration. Otherwise it is understood that a continuance is desired.

REMITTANCE should be made by check or money order, payable to the order of the Ohio University Alumni Association, and mailed to the Association, Box 285, Athens, Ohio.

THE FRONT COVER

From the Editor's Desk . . .

ON A RECENT Sunday Athens was visited by a violent wind, rain, and hail storm that reached almost cyclonic proportions. In one area just north of the city the storm exhibited all of the characteristics of a "twister," leaving behind a wide swath of destruction that was plainly discernible across the countryside.

Victim of the storm was one of Ohio University's famed and treasured McGuffey Elms.

Several years ago another elm in the McGuffey row succumbed to an onslaught of the elements. Others may go at any time. In fact, this note is written to prepare alumni for news of just such mishaps, news which is bound to come with increasing frequency.

Originally eighteen in number, the "McGuffeys" were planted in 1839, or shortly thereafter, by William Holmes McGuffey, fourth president (1839-1843) of Ohio University and author of the "Readers" that bear his name. Well over a century old, they cannot be expected to live forever. Although they have been cared for regularly by tree surgeons and other professionally-trained workers, these venerable trees are slowly dying and there is apparently no stopping the course of nature.

THE spring football training season at Ohio University is over and the prospects for next fall can be evaluated with at least a fair degree of accuracy. These prospects point to a vastly improved team over last year and a better statistical record than in 1947 when the Bobcats won three games, tied one, and lost five.

Last year's gridiron outfit was composed largely of youngsters who were inexperienced in any style of collegiate football, but the entire squad was at a disadvantage in having to learn the T formation with which Coach Wise inaugurated his regime as head coach. A year of experience and some new talent from freshman ranks are expected to contribute much to the improved prospects.

Throughout the nation schools are taking stands these days, publicly or otherwise, on the question of the subsidization of players. Some of them have let it be known that they will pay, to the limit of their means, whatever it takes to buy a winning team. Others, while professing a regard for the purity codes, will do practically the same thing. Still others will take only those steps which have long been regarded as legitimate in any league—and in so doing they will see some very desirable high school stars pass their gates on their ways to the schools with the open purses.

Ohio University has never had a team of hired Hessians. It does not offer football scholarships, nor, with the exception of some bonafide work jobs, offer other inducements having a cash value. There is a limited number of board and room jobs held by athletes who give just as many hours of service in return for them as do the non-athletes who hold similar jobs and who, incidentally, far outnumber the job-holding athletes.

The university does, however, provide its players with the best obtainable equipment, excellent medical care in case of injuries, and the best of food and hotel accommodations on road trips.

It's up to Ohio University alumni, therefore, to interest high school talent in their alma mater on the basis of good educational facilities, a skilled and considerate coaching staff, the best obtainable equipment, and possibly a board and room job. The demands of athletes who ask more cannot be met. There are many high-calibered players for whom no greater inducements are necessary.

We are used to winning teams at Ohio University. We want to see them in the future, but until the university goes over to a play-for-pay basis—a move most unlikely in the foreseeable future—we'll all have to join forces in helping to keep the squad rosters filled with the players who can produce those victories. It can be done.

The Class of 1948

By Walter F. Joyce, '48

With 140 February graduates, approximately 500 students graduating June 6 and over 100 scheduled for August, the 133rd senior class is the largest in Ohio University's history. Ranging from 30-year-old veterans to 20-year-old coeds, these seniors began their college education as far back as 1932 and as recently as February, 1946.

Last October Martin Blau, editor of the Ohio University Post and a senior, himself, urged in his column the formation of a class organization. A mass meeting called by Nick Alexander elected a steering committee and formulated a membership drive. Over 300 pledged members elected class officers in December and the Senior Class of 1948 was officially recognized. The new officers were confronted with a problem: how could they sustain interest in an organization with a group so divergent in age and background? What does the veteran with three children have in common with the young coed who is "going steady?"

The executive committee decided that anything that would benefit the university or the seniors would stimulate an active participation by the members. Spirited discussions enlivened the meetings as each new point came up. Some backed a proposal to grade the professors and instructors, but the majority voted it down as ineffectual and untimely. Margaret Sayles, class secretary polled the February graduates, learned that 90 percent preferred a graduation with caps and gowns. The university authorized "academic costumes" for the ceremony when the results were tabulated.

The class sponsored a production of the play "The Importance of Being Earnest" by professional actors and $85 was added to the class treasury from the profits. The class was granted the cap and gown concession, and with seniors working for 50 cents an hour made $45 from this venture. Another $55 was made by the same arrange-the Veteran's Administration will pay the rental fee for veterans; and (4) that excuses for absences because of illness be granted directly from the dean's office to seniors, thereby eliminating the medical examination by the health service.

William Smetts, class president, spoke with each university administrative officer involved in these recommendations. He then presented them in written form to President John C. Baker. Within three weeks all recommendations were in effect as part of university policy.

The class treasurer, Maxon Davis, announced in March that the treasury had close to $500, most of which was to be used for the class gift, a brick drinking fountain (see sketch) with four outlets to be erected in front of the Edwin Watts Chubb library. Students in Prof. A. C. Denison's architecture classes had submitted a dozen designs to Demo Romanucci, chairman of the gift committee. One by Thomas OJell, a junior, was chosen.

Dedication of the gift will be on Senior Day, May 26 a day free from classes for all seniors. President Baker and William Smetts are holding conferences to arrange the ceremonies and the convocation for that day. President Baker has also spoken at a class meeting, expressing his satisfaction in working with the class and its officers and the desire for continued cooperation with them.

As graduation approaches the class is rushing plans for a senior breakfast and a senior ball. Aware that the last year is too late for a class to organize to be fully effective, it has already influenced the formation of junior and sophomore classes. It has also begun work on the freshmen, offering advice and suggestions in the light of its experience.

Meanwhile, each meeting brought new suggestions. Discussion eliminated some points and reduced the number to four recommendations to the university for changes in policy. They were: (1) that the grades of senior final examinations be made known a week prior to graduation so that borderline students will know whether they are eligible to graduate;

(2) that second semester senior girls be granted 11 p. m. permission for week nights if they attain a 2.5 scholastic average; (3) that cap and gowns be formally required of all graduates so that

Former Bobcat Is Youngest Coach in Gridiron League

ROBERT A. SNYDER, '36, is the youngest head football coach in professional gridiron circles. Thirty-four years of age, he is directing the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League, senior "pro" circuit, after hanging up four records with the Chicago Bears which still stand, assisting Coach Frank Leahy install the T formation at Notre Dame, and as backfield coach helping the Rams win the 1945 national championship.

In the fall following graduation, Bob played professional football in Pittsburgh. The next year, 1937, he joined the Cleveland Rams. In 1939, the husky back went on to become one of the game's greatest placement kickers. He holds four records in his specialty: three field goals against the New York Giants in the 1941 championship game; eight extra points in one game, Bears vs. Giants in 1943; the largest number of extra points in a championship game, five against Washington in 1943; and the most extra points in one season, 39 in 1943.

In his six years in the National League, Snyder missed but two conversions, while in the season of 1943, he scored 12 out of 12 field goal attempts.

In 1942, Coach Leahy of Notre Dame asked the Bears' coach, George Halas, to recommend a man to help him install the T formation. Halas replied that was easy, Bob Snyder.

While working at the Thompson Aircraft plant in 1944, Snyder helped coach his high school alma mater, Toledo Libbey, to a state interscholastic championship.

In 1945, he went back to the Rams as backfield coach—the Rams' franchise having been transferred to Los Angeles—and saw his team climb out of second division to a world's championship. Following the 1946 season, he was named head coach of the Rams, succeeding Adam Walsh.

Now in his first year as head coach Snyder is considered one of the outstanding teachers of the intricate T formation, especially the functions of the all-important quarterback. His first student, Bob Waterfield, former U.C.L.A. star, is regarded as one of the best of the T formation quarterbacks.

Clark Shaughnessy, former Stanford U., Chicago Bears, and Washington Redskins coach and another master craftsman with the "T", was signed by the Rams this spring to serve as an advisory coach.

A motion picture film, "Highlights of 1947," produced by Academy Films, shows outstanding plays from 14 of the games played by the Rams last season. The picture is thirty minutes in length, is distributed free to clubs and organizations and is expected to be viewed by more than a half million people in Southern California, alone.

At Libbey High School, Toledo, Snyder won 13 letters; four each in football, baseball, and basketball, and one in track. As an all-state back in 1930 and '31, he was Ohio's top scorer both seasons and captained both the football and basketball teams in his senior year.

After playing freshman football at Ohio University in 1932, he went on to set an amazing iron man record as Ohio's regular left halfback in 1933-34-35. In those three years, he missed but nine minutes of playing time and was an All-Ohio back in 1934 and 1935. During those years the Bobcats registered victories over Indiana, Illinois, and Navy.

The Los Angeles coach married Eleanor Kunej, '36, on December 14, 1935, and they now have two daughters and a son.

Wedgwood in October

THE LATEST WORD from Josiah Wedgwood & Sons, Ltd., famed British pottery makers, is that Ohio University's commemorative plates will not be ready for shipment until October.

The plate, which is pictured at the left, will be 10½ inches in diameter, with an attractive Trent border and an early-day sketch of Cutler Hall and the campus in the center. The border design and center sketch will be in an eye-pleasing shade of green which, with the white background of the china, will make an appropriate combination of colors.

Although a large number of orders have already been placed by alumni, who desire the plates for their own china closets or for use as gifts to friends, orders are still being received by the Ohio University Fund, sponsor and expected beneficiary of the project. The price is $2.00 per plate, with twenty-five cents to be added to cover the cost of packaging and mailing.

Orders, with a check for $2.25, should be sent to George A. Banks, Ohio University Fund, Inc., Athens, Ohio.

The June Commencement

In compliance with the wishes of the June graduating group, the largest ever to don caps and gowns and take the traditional "long walk" under the Elms and across the commencement platform, the annual spring exercises will be restricted to a period of an evening and one day, Saturday and Sunday, June 5 and 6.

The somewhat abbreviated program will include the Commencement Supper and a concert by the 100-voice University Chorus on Saturday evening and be followed by the Baccalaureate Service Sunday morning and the formal Graduation Exercises Sunday afternoon.

The primary reason for the seniors' request was the scarcity of housing for out-of-town guests and a desire to make it possible for relatives and friends to attend two major events on the same day. Hotel and tourist home accommodations have long since been booked to capacity.

Because it is impossible to assure housing for members of many reunion groups only the 50-year, 35-year, and 25-year classes—the Classes of 1898, 1913, and 1923—are being urged to come back as units. All alumni, however, of whatever vintage or class, are of course welcome and it is sincerely hoped that there will be a large number on hand to renew acquaintance with former friends and with a city and campus that have changed greatly in recent years.

A limited number of rooms for alumni will be available for Saturday night, June 5. These rooms will be in university dormitories, and for that reason it will be necessary to divide families, the women, girls and small children going to the women's dormitories, and the men and boys to the men's dormitory. There will be a moderate charge for the rooms to cover housekeeping expense.

Inasmuch as the university does not provide its dormitory residents with bed covering, other than sheets, it will be advisable for alumni expecting to stay overnight in university quarters to bring along a light cover, just in case of unseasonably cool weather. University authorities regret the necessity for such a request, but there is no help for the situation.

A guarantee of overnight accommodations is being made to all members of the three reunion groups requesting them. It is likely that some other reservations can be accepted but they should be requested at the earliest possible date.

The Commencement Supper, an informal and highly popular affair, will be served at six o'clock Saturday evening (Eastern Standard Time) under the McGuffey Elms and just west of Alumni Memorial Auditorium. Alumni, seniors and their guests, and members of the faculty are eligible and cordially welcome to attend the event. Tickets for the supper will be required and must be secured in advance by writing to or calling at the Alumni Office, third floor of Cutler Hall. A nominal charge of sixty-five cents is made for the tickets. Arrangements are being made to serve approximately 1,000 persons.

Immediately following the supper, the University Chorus under the direction of Prof. C. C. Robinson, will present a concert from the west portico of the Auditorium. This splendid ensemble of mixed voices will open its program with a chorus theme arranged by Prof. Robinson and based on excerpts from Tschai'kowsky's Fifth and Sixth Symphonies. There will be numbers by Brahms, Gounod, and Bach, as well as numbers of a lighter character. There is no charge for this program.

The Baccalaureate Service will be held in the Auditorium at ten-thirty Sunday morning, with Dr. Charles W. Gilkey, South Yarmouth, Mass., as the speaker.

Dr. Gilkey is a graduate of Harvard University and Union Theological Seminary, and has studied in England, Scotland, and Germany. Honorary degrees have been conferred upon him by eight leading universities.

After 16 years as pastor of the Hyde Park Baptist Church, Chicago, Dr. Gilkey became a member of the faculty of the University of Chicago Divinity School in 1926, being associated with it from 1938 to 1947 when he gave up university work to engage in writing and lecturing.

Approximately 500 seniors and graduate students will receive degrees in the afternoon exercises which are scheduled for two-thirty. Roy E. Larsen, New York City, president of Time, Inc., will be the speaker of the occasion.

Mr. Larsen is a Harvard graduate and was a member of the Board of Overseers from 1940 to 1946. He was the principal speaker at the recent induction ceremonies of Dr. William Jansen as superintendent of schools of New York City.

As one of the original members of the staff of Time, Inc., Mr. Larsen has had a hand in publishing all of its magazines—TIME, LIFE, and FORTUNE. He is the creator of the March of Time radio program and also of the March of Time on the screen. From its launching in 1936 until last year, he was publisher of LIFE magazine.

On and About the Green . . .

A LARGE ROOM (see picture) on the ground floor of the Edwin Watts Chubb Library—a room once used for seminar purposes and more recently used as a temporary office for the dean of the College of Education—has been equipped with easy chairs, davenport and a dozen or more floor and table lamps for the comfort of casual readers and is now known as "The Pleasure Reading Room." Since the picture was taken, drapes have been hung at the windows and a large rug secured for the floor. The room is not intended for persons doing reference or assignment work. Books may be taken from a selected list on the shelves or secured through an attendant from the general stacks. Left to right in the picture, which shows less than half of the room, are: Betty Chapman, Clinton; Mrs. Fred Furbee (Charlotte Nelson, '47), Athens; Thomas Spencer, Parma Heights; Donald Russell (at shelves), Newcomerstown; Delores Babich, Cleveland; Mrs. Charles W. Card (Martha Lothes, '46), a student librarian, Athens; and Harry Millhoff, Shaker Heights.

Pleasure Reading Room in Edwin Watts Chubb Library

ORNAMENTAL iron railings will soon replace the old pipe railings beside the steps in front of Cutler Hall. Already in place in front of the building and along the center walk are six new campus lights of colonial design. Window shutters, now on order, will soon be placed on Wilson and McGuffey Halls. These new touches, together with a bit of shrubbery and landscaping that will come soon, serve to enhance the beauty of a campus which has long been known to its friends as the "Campus Beautiful."

DR. VIVIAN ROBERTS, director of the School of Home Economics at Ohio University, has returned from Washington, D. C., where she participated in the National Conference on Family Life called by President Truman. Miss Roberts was one of the 15 representatives of the American Home Economics Association. In March, Dr. Roberts attended meetings of the American Institute of Nutrition, at Atlantic City, and appeared on the program of the annual meeting of the Ohio Dietetic Association in Cleveland . . . Dr. E. T. Hellebrandt, professor of economics, will be one of twenty persons selected from among more than 300 considered in the Second Army area, to attend an industrial mobilization course in Pittsburgh, Pa., May 10-21. The course is sponsored by the government to study industrial mobilization plans which might be set up in case of another war. Dr. Hellebrandt, a member of the Reserve Officers Association, will be on an active duty assignment by the army during his absence from the campus . . . Dr. E. Herndon Hudson, director of the Ohio University Health Service, was elected president of the Ohio Student Health Association at an early April meeting of the group. He succeeds Dr. A. B. Denison, of Western Reserve University . . . Dr. Rush Elliott, '24, professor of anatomy, was reelected secretary of the Ohio Academy of Science at the annual meeting in Toledo early in May.

of entrants, 20. Instituted last year, the Science Day is designed to stimulate a greater interest in science subjects in high school and to give teachers and pupils an opportunity to get together and display and discuss projects, experiments, and papers. Exhibits were entered in the fields of physics, mathematics, zoology, biology, chemistry, botany, and general science. Dr. William C. Stehr, professor of entomology, was general chairman of the Science Day committee.

A GIFT FROM THE owners of the Athens Messenger has made possible a limited number of scholarships to be awarded for the 1948 Summer School to school administrators in schools located in the area served by this daily newspaper. These scholarships are to be given in recognition of exceptional service and promise in the field of school administration and they carry a stipend which will aid substantially in defraying the cost of attending summer school. There are seven scholarships, one to be awarded to a resident of each of the following counties: Athens, Hocking, Morgan, Vinton, Gallia, and Meigs, in Ohio, and Mason in West Virginia. Letters of application, with complete academic and professional history, should be directed to the Chairman, Scholarships Committee, Ohio University, Athens, Ohio, not later than June 1.

THOMAS GORTON, director of Ohio University's School of Music, has returned from Rochester, N. Y., where his new symphony, completed this year in Athens, was performed by the Eastman-Rochester Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Dr. Howard Hanson at the annual spring symposium of works for orchestra held by the Eastman School of Music. In a poll of the orchestra members taken to determine which works they considered best out of the 21 compositions performed during the five-day symposium, Mr. Gorton's symphony placed second.

OHIO UNIVERSITY'S Red Cross college unit has presented the Veterans' Hospital at Chillicothe with two large landscapes painted in oils by nine students in the School of Painting and Allied Arts who purchased the materials and worked on the painting in their spare time. Each of the paintings is four by twelve feet in size, and they will be framed and hung in the recreation hall at the hospital. Four of the group who worked on the project are shown with one of their pictures. Left to right they are: Ruth Hubbard, Quaker Hill, Conn.; Edward Zednik, Cleveland; Robert Sands and Richard McConkey, Athens. Others who had a part in the painting of the murals are Barbara Werner, Akron; Carl Melzer, Lakewood; Anthony Kozak, Cleveland; Thomas O'Leary, Steubenville; and Lorin Hardesty, Toledo. In the picture Miss Hubbard is wearing a dress designed and made by herself.

ATLETIC Director Don C. Peden has announced that October 23 will be the 1948 Homecoming date and that the Miami University Redskins will be the Bobcats' football opponents on that day. The rivalry between the two schools has long since assumed a traditional status and each will be represented this fall by a capable grid-iron outfit.

IN AN ADDRESS delivered before the Ohio College Association which met in Columbus in April, Dean Evan R. Collins of the College of Education declared that "the present shortage of elementary teachers in Ohio constitutes a grave threat to the educational system at all levels. Any collegiate institution is a tree cut at its base if it is unsupported by an adequate system of elementary and secondary education." Dean Collins is chairman of the committee on Teacher-Training in Elementary Education of the OCA. In a later address, delivered before Athens County school heads and boards of education, Dean Collins pointed out that only 574 elementary teachers will come out of Ohio colleges this year to meet a demand for more than 3,000 teachers in the state.

THE PERCENTAGE of veterans in the June graduating class will be almost four times the average of all the colleges and universities in the state according to Howard H. Sands, '22, manager of the Athens office of the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation. Approximately 54 per cent of Ohio University seniors this spring will be G.I.'s, while the general average for the state is only about 14 per cent. A state-wide telephone hook-up with 91 local offices has been developed by the BUC to enable qualified college graduates speedily to contact prospective employers. The college placement service is an extension of regular placement technique and is available to graduates or students with two years of college training who are willing to accept work anywhere in Ohio.

AMONG THE outside speakers who have addressed university audiences during the past month are Dr. Walter Husten Lillard, former American representative in Austria of the Intergovernmental Committee on Refugees. Only recently returned from Austria, the speaker explained that more than 400,000 refugees still remain in that country. Another speaker, who addressed members of the Ohio University Chemical Society, was Dr. Alfred W. Downes, assistant director of plant laboratories of the Carbon & Carbide Chemicals Corporation. The subject of Dr. Downes' talk was "The Synthetic Aliphatic Industry". . . Members of the Ohio Engineers Club have recently heard William O'Neill, Marietta, speaker of the Ohio House of Repre-

TWELVE OHIO university seniors and one January graduate were selected for membership in Phi Beta Kappa, national scholastic honorary society, in its spring election. The new members who will be initiated in May, are Julian McQuiston and Paul Bashford, Athens; David Pickard, Glouster; Robert Stivers, Pomeroy; Clayton Ferrell, Murray City; John Brown, Ellenville, N. Y.; Barbara Criswell, Ft. Wayne, Ind.; Frank Pavlik and Angelo Sandy, Youngstown; Margaret Sheard, Oxford; Mary Elizabeth Stanton, Cleveland; and Homer Skinner, Jr., Staten Island, New York. Edith Perloff is the member of the January graduating group. Julian McQuiston is a son of Raymer McQuiston, professor of English, while David Pickard is a brother of Leona M. Pickard, '40, A.M. '41, acting instructor in English. Homer Skinner is a son of Dr. Homer L. Skinner, '22. Clayton Ferrell is the husband of the former Rhea Wendelken, '44.

EDWIN J. TAYLOR, JR., who retired from the U. S. Navy a little over a year ago after 23 years of service and who came to Ohio University last spring to assume the deanship of the College of Applied Science, has been promoted to the rank of rear admiral, USN, retired. A graduate of the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, almost 20 of Dean Taylor's years of service were spent at sea on duty which included service as executive and engineer officer aboard battleships and cruisers.

Record Building Program Under Way

THE REMAINING units of the Men's Dormitory quadrangle, an engineering science building, a fine arts building, a student health building, and an airport hangar are major projects in the university's physical expansion program for which architects' plans have already been prepared or will soon be coming off the drawing boards.

Rehabilitation projects of more than minor scope are under way or planned for Ewing Hall, Music Hall, the "Ag" Building, and Alumni Memorial Auditorium.

Well advanced in its construction is Bryan Hall, a new dormitory for girls, while contemplated in the relatively near future are a student center building and a fieldhouse for athletics. Plans for financing the construction of the last two buildings have not yet been developed in detail.

Minor projects which have been started or which will be embarked upon within the next few months are the construction of new heating tunnels on University Terrace and College Street, the installation of a new storm fence around Ohio Stadium and the tennis courts, the filling and draining of the west end of the Ohio University Airport, and the erection of two F.W.A. buildings near the baseball field. The last named will be an addition to present engineering facilities and a garage for university busses.

The foregoing, and other projects which have not yet reached the announcement stage, constitute the most extensive building program ever engaged in at one time in the history of the university.

It is hoped that work on the two units required to complete the Men's Dorm will be started this summer. Costing approximately $375,000, the new additions will provide normal accommodations for 144 students, with an overload capacity of 216. The present structure is currently housing 300 men. Dining facilities will be expanded to make possible the serving of 400 men at one time. The lounge room and recreation room will also be enlarged. The first two units of the dormitory, Evans and Dana halls, were built in 1937, while the Dunkle and Gordy units were completed and occupied in 1939. The new units should be ready for occupancy by September, 1949. Two residential units, Pierce and Pearl cottages, will be razed to make room for the dormitory addition.

The half-million dollar Bryan Hall, started in the summer of 1947, with cornerstone laying ceremonies last fall, will be ready for occupancy in September of this year. Exercises dedicating the building to the memory of the late President Elmer Burritt Bryan will be held at a later date. The dormitory, located on University Terrace, opposite Memorial Auditorium, will have normal accommodations for 196 girls, two to a room, but can house 294 under an emergency program. Due to the fact that much critical material is required in equipping the kitchen, it is possible that the dining room will not be in operation before the opening of the second semester next year. Every effort is being made to secure and install the equipment for fall use, however.

The engineering science building, bids for which will be taken shortly, will be located just beyond the Delta Tau Delta house on President Street overlooking the South Bridge and the river. A $285,000 unit will be erected at this time, with the intention of enlarging the structure in the not-too-distant future. The plans have been drawn accordingly. When completed, it will be one of the most modern engineering buildings on any campus and will be a match in functional design and usefulness for the new Chemistry Building.

Space will be included in the first floor of the new building for a hydraulics laboratory for civil engineering and for a mechanical engineering laboratory. The latter, for the present, will be housed in the new F.W.A. building near the baseball field. The second and third floors will contain offices of the College of Applied Science and classrooms and laboratories for electrical engineering. The departments of industrial arts and physics will remain in Super Hall, most of the civil engineering work having been transferred last year to a temporary engineering building erected on the site of the old tennis courts.

Steel columns, from the ground up, and a special strengthening of the roof will be provided in the new engineering building for the support of a ten-inch refracting telescope which will be placed on top of the building for the use of the departments of astronomy and mathematics. The telescope, now on order, will require a year or more for its building.

The fine arts building (see architect's sketch), to be occupied largely by the School of Dramatic Art and Speech and located on South College Street, will cost in the neighborhood of $700,000. Final plans and specifications should be completed by July 1. Its construction will involve the razing of the old Lash home and the home immediately to the south of it, as well as the removal of 14 trailer units from Veterans Village.

Architect's Sketch of Fine Arts Building Soon To Be Erected

Provision has been made in the basement floor for a number of offices, three radio studios, a control room, and an audition room, and for a costume shop and dressing and storage rooms for a Little Theatre.

The theatre, itself, to seat 300 persons, will be on the first floor, as will be more offices, a library—conference room, small rehearsal theatre, and a "Green Room" where theatre arts students may gather for recreational and professional purposes—more informally, of course.

The offices and laboratories of the speech correction department will be found on the second floor, while on the third floor there will be a large forensics classroom, a debate study, and offices and smaller classrooms for the department of speech.

Plans and specifications are in an advanced stage of preparation for a student health building to be located on an area off South College Street and to the rear of the President's home which faces on East Union Street. The building, exclusive of equipment, will cost approximately $500,000. It will greatly facilitate the work of the Student Health Service carried on by Dr. E. Herndon Hudson and his staff of three physicians and seven nurses. Although currently housed in cramped quarters in the basement of the Agriculture Building the health center clinic administered to the needs of 36,300 students (duplicates included) between June, 1946, and June, 1947. From the latter time until April 17, 1948, a total of 27,157 student calls had been made at the clinic. During the same periods a total of 1,526 students (including repeaters) had been cared for in the 25-bed infirmary.

The new hangar at the Airport is nearing completion and will be ready for use by July 1. With it, and the three present hangars, space will be provided for all planes now used in flight training courses at Ohio University.

The rehabilitation of Ewing Hall is well under way and the contract calls for completion of the work by September 15. The cost will be around $125,000. The former offices of the president and a classroom have been remodeled into a suite of offices for the university treasurer. The former offices of the treasurer, across the hall, are being remodeled to provide a new office for Dean A. H. Armbruster of the College of Commerce and more room for Registrar Robert E. Mahn and his staff.

The Ewing Hall project also includes a complete remodeling of the back wing of the building. The auditorium which originally accommodated some 700 persons will be rebuilt to seat only about 250 persons. The balcony will be eliminated and acoustical material applied to the ceiling.

In the basement, four new classrooms will be constructed to provide quarters for the School of Journalism, now housed in Ellis Hall. Space also will be provided for the setting up of a complete photo-engraving plant for which no previous quarters were available. Asphalt tile flooring is being laid throughout the entire building.

Alumni Memorial Auditorium, completed and dedicated in 1929, is scheduled to have its first renovation this summer. There will be a complete redecoration of the interior; a refurnishing of the stage area, including a new curtain; new carpeting; and some changes in the corridors of the first and mezzanine floors. Approximately $30,000 will be required for this project.

The rehabilitation and re-equipping of the Agriculture Building is a project that will be in the hands of an architect shortly. New wiring, some plumbing, and eight new model kitchens for the School of Home Economics comprise the major portion of the work to be done.

The remodeling of Music Hall involves, principally, a redistribution of space in the building. The structure was originally designed as a training schools for elementary teachers. The remodeling process will provide 13 additional practice rooms, a record library and four listening rooms, and eight more studios or small classrooms.

In draining, tiling, and filling the west end of the Airport provision will be made for a student trailer camp and a parking lot for the cars of veterans now living in the East State Street Apartments opposite the Children's Home.

Approximately $30,000 will be expended in terracing and landscaping the hillside at the rear of Bryan Hall and the Agriculture Building and in the construction of steps and a walk to connect the main campus, or "Green," with the new lower campus or "East Green," on which are now located 23 temporary dormitories for single men. Filled to a height above flood levels, this area will someday be the site of permanent buildings.

After receiving petitions with the signatures of approximately 4,000 students for a new student center building, the board of trustees and the university administration approved a special registration fee to help finance the project. Collection of the fee—$5 for a regular semester and $2.50 for a summer session—will start with the 1948 Summer School.

Pictured on this page are President Baker and members of the student committee which presented the petitions asking for an assessment for the benefit of the proposed center. Left to right, the individuals are: Avis Gill, Altoona, Pa.; President Baker; Nancy Troup, Pleasantville; Nick Mihalik, Stratton; and Herbert Klier, Ingomar, Pa.

Cleveland Attorney Dies Of Heart Attack in East

Thomas Hoyt Jones, '09x, Cleveland, an outstanding member of the legal profession and a past president of the Cleveland Bar Association, died

Thomas Hoyt Jones

April 14 in Fredericksburg, Va., of a heart attack. He and his wife were motoring from Baltimore to Washington when the attack occurred.

Mr. Jones was born Aug. 11, 1887, in Jackson, a son of the late Ohio Supreme Court Judge Thomas A. Jones, '81, A.M. '03, LL.D. '19, and Grace Hoyt Jones, '81x. The ceremony uniting the father and mother in marriage was performed in 1886 by the late Dr. William H. Scott, '62, a former president of Ohio University. Judge Jones' father, Eben Jones, had been a student at Ohio University before the Civil War.

The Cleveland attorney attended Ohio University for two years, 1905-07. While on the local campus he was a star athlete as well as an outstanding scholar. Transferring to Ohio State University for law, he won Phi Beta Kappa honors as well as a place on the All-Ohio football team. In 1910, he was quarterback and captain of the Ohio State team.

At the time of his death Mr. Jones was senior partner in the law firm of Jones, Day, Cockley & Reavis, an organization which, with its approximately fifty junior partners and associates, was the largest in Cleveland and perhaps the largest west of New York City. He was also a director in more than a dozen large companies, including the Glenn L. Martin Co. of Baltimore, and the Warner & Swasey Co. of Cleveland.

A specialist in corporation law, Mr. Jones was the corporate attorney for Cyrus S. Eaton when the Cleveland financier was building his utilities and industrial empire.

In World War I he was a private in the coast artillery.

Besides his wife, the former Katherine Allein Brooks of Columbus, Mr. Jones' survivors include two sons and a sister, Mrs. Harold G. Mosier (Grace Hoyt Jones, '16x), Washington, D. C.

Building Program Under Way

Although no plans have been drawn it is expected that the building will cost well over a million dollars. Among other things it will provide a ballroom, lounges, a variety of recreational facilities, a cafeteria, and offices for student publications and other group activities. The building will also include a memorial to students and alumni who lost their lives in World Wars I and II.

Dr. James R. Patrick, professor of psychology, has been appointed chairman of the student center planning committee—made up of administrative officials, faculty members, and students—which will gather ideas for incorporation in plans for this much needed building.

The new center will be located on the site of the present student center building and in addition will occupy properties to the west and north of the present building.

The matter of a fieldhouse for Ohio University has been under discussion and investigation for several years. The hope, however, that a large wartime structure of suitable size might be found and removed to the university's athletic fields across the Hocking River may have to be abandoned. Many trips have been taken by university authorities to Washington, D. C., Chicago, and elsewhere, but no available building has proved to be adequate in width for fieldhouse purposes, 140 feet being deemed a minimum for this dimension. Preliminary sketches for a "custom-built" structure are being prepared, therefore, for submission to the building committee of the board of trustees.

Mrs. Fred E. Luchs Named "First Lady of the Year"

The honorary title of Athens' "First Lady of the Year" was conferred recently upon Mrs. Evelyn Coulter Luchs, '27, by the local chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, international business girls' sorority. The honored lady is the wife of the Rev. Fred E. Luchs, pastor of the Athens Presbyterian Church.

The title was voted by members of the Athens group in recognition of the recipient's contributions to community development.

Mrs. Luchs is president of the Athens City Federated Women's Clubs and a member of the Pallas and Tuesday Clubs.

The minister's wife is a past president of the Ohio Council of Church Women and served on Governor Bricker's Committee on Democracy. She is a member of the executive committee of the National Council of Protestant Church Women, is on the editorial staff of the New Century Leader, and was national chairman of World Community Day in 1945 and 1946.

Mrs. Luchs has filled her husband's pulpit on occasions when he was absent, and articles from her pen have appeared in a number of well-known publications. She also finds time for numerous out-of-town speaking engagements.

All this in addition to caring for the manse and a family of four adopted children.

The University Elementary School

By Ann Troxell

"THE UNIVERSITY ELEMENTARY SCHOOL has everything it needs to make it a good place to send children," believes Dr. Wilbur A. Yauch, principal of the Ohio University school and associate professor of education.

"And if it isn't a good place, then someone should investigate us to find out what's wrong," he declares.

The fundamental aims of the school are:

1. To provide children with the best education that can be devised.

2. To serve as a practice center where student teachers can learn how to deal with children in a selected school environment.

3. To act as an educational service center for all of Ohio University and the public schools of the surrounding area.

The first and primary purpose of the school, that of providing the best possible place for children to learn, leads to the second as a matter of course. "For, if it is not a good place for children," states Dr. Yauch, "It is not a good place for student teachers to learn the art of teaching children."

The university school is not a proponent of any particular system of education, the principal emphasizes. In fact, one of the fundamental characteristics of the school is that it changes as the staff's knowledge develops through practice and experience, for "we don't claim to be perfect."

As a minor example of a change brought about through experience, as well as through cooperation with parents, Dr. Yauch cites the recent revision of report cards. "When we find through practice or through suggestions from parents that we are not doing something in the best way possible, we are ready to change our method."

Located in Rufus Putnam Hall at the foot of the East Union Street hill, the school has a staff of ten full-time supervising critics, who rank as assistant professors in the College of Education, as well as supervising critics in art, music, and physical welfare. Besides the four and five-year kindergartens, grades one to six, and a special education class, there is a nursery school operated by the School of Home Economics.

When a child leaves the University Elementary School at the end of the sixth grade, it is the staff's intention that he shall be equipped with all the knowledge which he is personally capable of assimilating, for the school "accepts the responsibility of educating every child to his maximum."

The school also thinks it vitally important that every child explore his own capabilities and "find something that he can do better than most children." This is in line with the theory upheld by the state department of education that every child has something he can do better than anyone else.

The Ohio University educator stresses the importance of "dealing with things instead of abstractions" in

Dr. Yauch is a native of Rochester, N. Y. He received his B.S. degree from Springfield College, Springfield, Mass., and his A.M. and Ed.D. degrees from Teachers College, Columbia University.

In 1929-30, he taught in the Cathedral Choir School in New York City. For the next six years he was superintendent of the public schools of Harrington Park, N. J., while from 1936 to 1944 he was principal of an elementary school in Euclid, Ohio. He came to Ohio University in the latter year.

teaching children. "For instance, many people think we don't believe in mathematics," he says, "when the fact is we feel that mathematics is so important that we must teach it right—not by developing automatic responses to numbers, but by giving the children real experience in dealing with arithmetic problems in life."

Children leaving the university school to enter a public school usually become quite easily adjusted, Dr. Yauch states, "provided" they have had the benefit of the entire program from kindergarten through the sixth grade. "Children who transfer to a public school without full benefit of the program, he cautions, may find the adjustment not so easy.

The school is able to function ideally both as a practice center for student teachers and a service agency because of the belief of Dean Evan R. Collins that teacher training is the job of the entire university, not of the College of Education alone.

The Elementary School is available for use by nearly every division of the university, and Dr. Yauch encourages the use of the school by many groups. For example, every year members of a journalism class in contemporary thought and development spend a week observing the school to learn the latest developments in the field of education. Classes in home economics, physical welfare, art, and music have made good use of the school for observation purposes.

In its role as a service agency for surrounding public schools, the university school makes staff members available for free consultation to any school needing help with a specific problem. Dr. Yauch hopes that schools in Southeastern Ohio will be made more aware of this service and take increasing advantage of the offer.

The school also serves as an observation center for teachers from other schools. The principal compares the process of observation and study in the school to that of a typical laboratory where students "take a frog apart to see what makes him tick."

The summer conference for elementary educators, inaugurated last year, is another service offered by the school.

The Bobcat Sports Review

By VIC SHEROW, '29

WITH OHIO'S Bobcats presenting a well-rounded spring sports program for the first time since pre-war days, attention of students and fans is divided among the baseball, track, tennis and golf squads, with Coach Don Peden's diamond squad attracting the greatest interest.

If alumni could have viewed the baseball diamond and other outdoor playing fields around April 13, they would have thought the entire spring program was washed out. These fields, however withstood the ravages of six-foot deep flood waters that swept over the area for nearly a week.

As of May 10, the baseballers had marked up a 12 won and 8 lost record for a .600 percentage, having won six of their last seven games. Records of the other spring sports were a bit on the disappointing side. However, nothing to shed tears about when one considers the lack of experienced men on the tennis, golf, and track squads.

In the Mid-American Conference, where the Bobcats are fighting to retain their first-place championship laurels won in the first year of competition in 1947, they at present rank second to the strong Western Michigan aggregation which finishes its conference season early and will give the Bobcats and other members something to shoot for.

Peden's diamond squad now has a 4 to 2 rating in the conference, good for second place behind Western Michigan with a 6-2 mark. Miami and Butler each have 3-3 records, while Cincinnati has one win to three losses and Western Reserve still seeks its first league victory.

After completing a seven-game southern training trip with a 4 to 3 record, the Bobcats, under tutelage of Don Peden for the 25th straight year, launched their regular season with a two-game home series with Western Michigan, handing the visitors a 4 to 3 defeat in the first encounter, and dropping the second tilt 5 to 3.

University of Michigan, with such football stars as Bob Chappius, "Bump" Elliott, Dom Tomasi and Jack Weisenburger in the lineup, visited the Bobcats' lair on April 9 and 10, taking the measure of the Ohioans 10 to 4 in the first encounter, but bowing before "Speedball" Mark Wylie in the second tilt 1 to 0. Wylie held the ever-dangerous Wolverines to three hits while his teammates garnered five off two Michigan pitchers.

The Wolverines, three weeks later, handed Ohio State two successive defeats, the first of the regular season for the Buckeyes, and all but knocked Ohio State out of the running for the Big Nine title. The Bobcats will cross bats with State at Columbus May 18, in a game postponed from April 13 when the Bobcats were unable to get out of Athens due to flood conditions, and will entertain the Buckeyes here on May 31 in the last home game of the season.

By devious detours and some traveling through floodwaters, the Bobcats managed to get to Morgantown, W. Va., on April 17 to clash with the Mountaineers in a double-header.

Putting on probably their worst exhibition of the season, the Bobcats made nine errors in the first game and practically handed West Virginia a 6 to 3 victory. The Mountaineers took the second game, a seven inning affair, 7 to 3. Cold weather on the playing day and the lack of outdoor practice for about a week handicapped the fighting Bobcats.

The scheduled April 20 game with Marietta had to be postponed to May 11 when it was found impossible to play it either in Athens or Marietta due to wet diamonds.

Still smarting under their double defeat by West Virginia, the Bobcats took to the road again April 23 and tripped Cincinnati 8 to 6 in a Mid-American Conference contest to launch a six-game winning streak that boosted their stock to high levels.

Taking on Miami the next day at Oxford, the Bobcats proceeded to knock Miami's ace hurler, Noel Howard, off the mound in the third inning with a four-run spurge and went on to take the honors 8 to 4. A four-run eighth-inning the day before had clinched the game for the Bobcats over Cincinnati.

A four-run eighth inning on April 27 subdued the Quantico Marines 6 to 3 in the last of three games they were playing on an invasion of Ohio...

Mark Wylie Six Feet Over Pitcher's Mound

Six errors proved costly for the Marines, whose season schedule of nearly 100 games looks more like a big league schedule.

Holding a 4 to 1 margin going into Ohio's half of the fifth inning Michigan saw its victory chances take a decided setback when the Bobcats had another of their four-run innings. The Bobcats tangle with the Michigan State nine at E. Lansing, Mich., on June 4 and 5 in the last games of the 1948 season.

Playing away from home on May 8, the Bobcats divided a twin bill with the Butler Bulldogs, winning the first 4 to 0 behind the four-hit pitching of Mark Wylie, and dropping the second 8 to 3, for their second even split with a conference opponent.

Miami and Cincinnati play return engagements on the Athens diamond on May 14 and 15 after the Bobcats entertain Marietta here in a game postponed from April 20, and after meeting Ohio State at Columbus on May 18 in another postponed tilt, wind up their Mid-American Conference season on May 21 and 22 against Western Reserve at Cleveland. The Bobcats hope to repeat their earlier conference wins over Cincinnati and Miami on the local diamond.

Remaining games of the schedule are at Marietta, May 25; Kent State at Athens on May 27 and 28; Ohio Wesleyan here May 29; Ohio State here May 31; and Michigan State at East Lansing on June 4 and 5.

Jay Ingall of Beaver, although having pitched only 25 innings in six games, leads the Bobcat pitchers with a 3 to 1 record for a .750 percentage. Old Faithful Mark Wylie, who had pitched 74 innings in 9 games, has a 6-3 mark for .667 with Don Poling of Lancaster having a 3-3 record after pitching 55 innings in 10 games. The eighth loss is marked up against Robert Bracale of Cleveland.

Leading the Bobcats in hitting is Catcher Ken Weiss of Cleveland East High, who has a .365 mark for 19 games, while Don Poling is close behind with .350 in 11 games. Only other above-.300 hitters are Second Baseman Charles Horn of Crooksville, with .333, and Infielder Mike O'rsin of Lodi, N. J., with .320.

Prospects Brighter for Football

ON APRIL 24, a day more suited to baseball, track, and tennis and even swimming, Coach Harold Wise sent his football charges through their annual spring intra-squad game before a crowd of more than 2,000 spectators, all of whom agreed that the Bobcat team that takes the field next fall facing a tough intersectional and conference schedule will be one that will give any opponent a rough afternoon.

Coach Wise divided his 70-candidate squad into the Greenhorns quarterbacked by Pat Connelly of Midland, Pa., and the Goldbrickers under direction of Chris Stefan of Dayton, star of last year's season-ending victory over Xavier.

With the boys putting on an exhibition in which strong tackling, heady blocking, and some neat running stood out, the Goldbrickers swamped the Greenhorns 28 to 6, with every member of the squad given a chance for some action during the contest.

The vicious tackling of some of the players had a mid-season flavor and the afternoon's activities gave strong evidence that Coach Wise will have plenty of good backfield men as well as linemen to pit against opponents next fall, barring unforeseen losses.

And no one denies that the Bobcats are taking on some stiff opponents, including Washington and Lee, Duquesne, West Virginia and Bowling Green, in addition to five conference teams.

The season's schedule stacks up as follows, with no "breathers" evident at this moment:

Sept. 25, Bowling Green at Athens; Oct. 2, Washington and Lee at Roanoke, Va., Oct. 9, Cincinnati at Cincinnati (night); Oct. 16, Western Reserve at Athens; Oct. 23, Miami at Athens (Homecoming.); Oct. 30, Duquesne at Athens; Nov. 6, West Virginia at Morgantown, W. Va., Nov. 13, Butler at Indianapolis, Ind.; and Nov. 20, Western Michigan at Athens.

Golfers Have Heavy Schedule

PLAYING ONE of the most extensive schedules in Ohio's history, Coach Kermit Blossers golfers have only three victories and one tie against seven defeats to show for their work to date, but this year's experience with the addition of some promising recruits next year give indications of better times ahead for the Ohio linksmen.

The golfers have a 6½ to 5½ victory over Marietta, an 11½ to 1½ win over Wittenberg, and a 14½ to 12½ triumph over Xavier to their credit, along with an 8-8 tie with the Denison golfers who beat the Bobcats previously 9½ to 6½ on the Athens Country club course, scene of home contests.

Other losses were 9½ to 2½ to Dayton, 8½ to 3½ to Marietta, 17 to 10 to Miami, 9½ 2½ to Ohio Wesleyan, 14½ to 6½ to Wayne and 7 to 4½ to Bowling Green.

Contests with Cincinnati, Dayton, and Miami remain on the schedule together with the Ohio Intercollegiate Golf Championships at Ohio State and the Mid-American Conference championships here on May 28 and 29.

Weak In Field Events

A TRACK TEAM lacking experienced men and noticeably weak in the field events had two wins, two losses and a tie to its credit on May 10 with only two more meets on schedule, a clash with Bowling Green there on May 19 and the Mid-American Conference championships here on May 28 and 29.

The tracksters, coached by Jim Johnson for the first season, opened with a 96 to 26 loss to Pittsburgh, but came back four days later to best Marshall of West Virginia 100 to 27 on the home track.

Remembering the two-point loss last year to the Cincinnati Bearcats in the final event on the program, the Bobcats journeyed to the Queen City on May 1 and held the strong Cincinnati team to a 63 to 63 tie. Victories in the distance events and relay events have helped the Bobcats keep in the scoring in all meets, but weakness in the field events has been too great a burden for the cindermen to overcome in some encounters.

West Virginia entertained the Bobcats at Morgantown on May 8 and sent them home on the short end of a 76½ to 45½ count, victories in the distance runs giving the Bobcats most of their points.

Former Civil Engineering Department Head Surprised

Lewis J. Addicott, who retired in 1958 as professor of civil engineering and now holds the rank of professor emeritus, was honored by some of his former colleagues with a surprise luncheon at Hotel Berry on the occasion of his 80th birthday, April 14.

Professor Emeritus L. J. Addicott

Those present to wish him "many more happy birthdays" were Dean Edwin Watts Chubb, Dean Thomas C. McCracken, Prof. Hiram Roy Wilson, Prof. Isaac E. Ash, and Prof. Thomas N. Hoover, all members of the emeriti group living in Athens. Prof. W. F. Copeland was prevented by illness from attending the party.

Prof. Addicott, whose teaching career covered a span of more than fifty years, came to Ohio University in 1904 to organize and to head a department of "civil and mining engineering" which the board of trustees had just authorized. A few years later the "mining" was dropped from the name of the department.

CAMPUS POSITIONS OPEN

Martin L. Hecht, '46, Ohio University's acting personnel director, has announced the existence of a number of vacancies in the staffs of university offices and that more openings will occur during the next few months. One of the positions to be filled is that of stenographer in the Alumni Office.

Ohio University graduates or former students who are qualified as clerks, typists, or stenographers and who are interested in securing positions at their alma mater should communicate at once with Mr. Hecht. Further details and information concerning the Civil Service examinations, which are required for most of the positions will be sent upon request.

Inquiries should be directed to Mr. Martin L. Hecht, Acting Personnel Director, Ohio University, Athens, Ohio.

The Elementary School

Underlying the school's practices as a center of learning for children, a center of training for student teachers, and a center of service for the entire university and other schools, is the basic concept of "growth through experience."

"Our foundations of education are psychology and sociology," the school head explains. "Our problem is to study the facts accumulated by experts and put them to work, not to weave pretty theories of our own. We are essentially integrators and practitioners of other people's knowledge."

"We must examine all theories of education, and make both theory and practice square with the facts," Dr. Yauch declares, "for the school should be moving consistently toward a better kind of practice."

Tennis Squad on the Road

The Bobcats opened with a 7 to 0 win over Marshall, which also fell a couple of weeks later 8 to 1 on the local courts, but between the two wins were 4 to 3 losses to Western Reserve and Miami, followed with a 6 to 1 loss to Ohio Wesleyan, all on the winners' courts.

Return contests with Ohio Wesleyan, Miami and Western Reserve are scheduled on the home courts to end the season except for the conference matches.

The Bobcat tennis squad, under direction of Dean of Men Maurel Hunkins, faced prospects of playing only away from home when the season opened, due to unscheduled delays in the rebuilding of the courts, which were under flood waters for about a week just after the season started.

Professor Emeritus Leaves

Athens for Michigan Home

After a residence of 40 years in Athens, Dr. W. Frank Copeland, '02, Ph.M. '03, professor emeritus of agriculture, and Mrs. Copeland (Helen Reinherr, '05), left the city on April

Professor Emeritus W. F. Copeland

22 to make their home in Alden, Mich., a town on the northern peninsula of the state.

Mrs. Copeland, who had been seriously ill for several months, made the trip by ambulance plane accompanied by a nurse, while Dr. Copeland went by automobile.

The Copelands have a summer home near Alden which they expect to remodel into a year-round residence. Their daughter, Mrs. Lloyd A. Aemissegger (Martha Helen Copeland, '45), is a resident of Alden, where her husband owns a sports shop.

Dr. Copeland, brother of the late Charles M. Copeland, '96, longtime head of the School of Commerce, came to Ohio University in 1907 after receiving his doctorate at Clark University. He held the rank of professor of agriculture from 1910 until his retirement in 1943.

Always jovial in class, Dr. Copeland will be remembered by many for his references to coeds with the "little apple butter faces."

The new Michigan resident was national president of the Ohio University Alumni Association in 1938-39.

Here and There Among the Alumni

1897

CHARLES E. CAMERON, 2-yr., Athens insurance man, has sold his home and his interest in the firm of Cameron & Van Dyke, and, with Mrs. Cameron, expects soon to go to Palo Alto, Calif., where he purchased a new home more than a year ago. At the time of his retirement on May 1 his was the oldest established insurance agency in Athens. In Palo Alto, Mr. and Mrs. Cameron will be near their son,

Thomas H. Evans, Jr.
(See Class of 1932 Notes)

ARTHUR E. CAMERON, '26, also an insurance man, and his family. ARVILLA VAN DYKE, '11x, who has been associated with her uncle in the Athens firm, has now become a partner with O. G. Houck in Houck & Van Dyke, Inc., and will continue to engage in the general insurance business.

1898

Of the thirteen members of the Class of 1898—the 50-year Class—only three are deceased. Those who have passed on are Mrs. Charles H. Bryson (Lucy Weetche), Carlos A. Woodworth, and Winfield K. Scott. The remaining members and their present locations are: Rev. Frank J. Batterson, Bluffton; John L. Clark, Downington; Mrs. Eugene V. Tuttle (Alma Cornwell), Vigo; Mrs. Hiram Roy Wilson (Florence Craig), Athens; John F. Henderson, Ashland; Charles G. O'Brienness, Athens; Orrin G. Thomas, Chicago, Ill.; Rev. Dr. Don D. Tullis, Athens; Dr. Josephus T. Ullom, Philadelphia, Pa.; and Mrs. Harry O'Brienness (Ada Wickham), Athens.

GILBERT A. BENNETT, a sales representative in Columbus, of a candy manufacturing concern, moved to Washington, D.C., last October where, although not in too good health, he is continuing in the same occupational activity. He was state manager, for Michigan, of the Home Correspondence School of Springfield, Mass., 1900-1904, and headed the Stenographic Institute in Ann Arbor, 1904-1907. From 1908 to sometime in the 1920's he was president of the Correspondence Institute in Columbus. Mr. Bennett hopes to return to the campus next year for a 50th anniversary reunion of his class.

THOMAS N. HOOVER, who retired from the Ohio University faculty last year with the honorary rank of emeritus professor of history, will teach history in the Summer School of the University of Montana this summer for the second year in succession. He was the commencement speaker at the close of the U. M. summer session last year.

1908

DR. WILLIAM W. LEE, 2-yr., veteran Athens dentist, has been forced to give up his practice because of a physical ailment that has persisted for several months. He is now able to get about for limited times and distances with the aid of crutches. His wife, who died recently, was GRACE BEVERAGE, of Athens. A daughter, Mrs. Harold J. Rose (MARY HELEN LEE, '34), is the wife of an Athens attorney.

1909

CORA E. BAILEY, who taught in the University Elementary School from 1910 to 1924, and in Athens Junior High School from the latter year to 1933, and now retired, has reported a change of address from Columbus to R.F.D. 1, Circleville. The Alumni Secretary pays tribute to his 7th grade teacher and would, if possible, make amends for whatever worries or distractions he may have been responsible for as her student. Doubtless, his sins were many.

1910

DR. C. O. WILLIAMSON, B.S., '10, M.S., '12, B.S. Ed., '16 (see picture) and Mrs. Williamson (EDNA BELL, '12, 2-yr.) are at present in Chicago where the former is "having fun" at the University of Chicago catching up on the latest developments in his fields of mathematics and astronomy. Dr. Williamson is on a year's leave at absence from his position as professor of applied mathematics and astronomy at the College of Wooster. He received his Ph.D. from the University of Chicago in 1928, and has been a member of the College of Wooster faculty since 1919. Mrs. Williamson, who majored in speech and dramatics at Ohio University, has been active in those fields at her husband's institution.

While paying a recent snoopy visit to the attic of Ewing Hall, a building now undergoing a considerable degree of remodeling and renovation, the Alumni Secretary climbed up into one of the minarets which adorn (?) the structure and there found a number of names which had been carved or written by other explorers. The earliest recording noted was that of HORTON C. POWNALL, whose name and home town, Pomroy, were written on the timbers Feb. 15, 1908. Mr. Pownall, now a very successful insurance agent and broker in Portland, Ore., received a diploma in accounting in 1909 and his Bachelor of Science degree in 1912. His wife is the former MAMIE MCCOMBS, '11, 2-yr.

DR. ERNEST L. NIXON, M.S. in Ed., '15, who retired recently after 25 years as a member of the faculty of Pennsylvania State College, is now Agricultural Counselor to the Pennsylvania Chain Store Council. Accompanied by his sister-in-law, Mrs. Luther H. Powell (DORIS KENNEDY, '18), of Missoula, Mont., he was an Alumni Office visitor early this year. Dr. Nixon was associated with the Ohio Agriculture Experiment Station at Wooster for a year after receiving his baccalaureate degree. The next year he managed a large Athens county fruit and poultry farm. At Penn State, where he was professor of plant pathology, he was known as Pennsylvania's "potato wizard." He received his Ph.D. degree from Columbia University in 1927.

Mrs. Ralph Myer (BESSIE HAWK) is now a resident of Canton. She retired only a few years ago from a teaching position in Roosevelt High School, Dover, which she had held since 1915.

STOKES, '16X) of San Jose, Calif. He is William Stanley Lambert, son of William and Beverly Dougan Lambert. The picture was taken when the young man was two years of age. The grandfather, a San Jose physician and surgeon, at present inactive because of a heart ailment, hopes that Billy will someday come to Ohio University and establish a pitching record in baseball that will equal or surpass his own. Dr. Dougan writes that "I am training him now on his fast ball and he has progressed well, for he has broken two table lamps and one window in the big front room to date. I am sure he can break my strikeout record (it still stands) at O.U.—an average of 14.4 strikeouts per game, with 19 strikeouts in one game, Ohio Wesleyan at Delaware." Incidentally, the California surgeon pitched two no-hit, no-run games during his five years of professional baseball after leaving the campus. Dr. and Mrs. Dougan have been in Tucson, Ariz., and Palm Springs, Calif., since early in the year, but expect to return to San Jose in June.

JUDGE ROY J. GILLEN, A.B. and B.S. Ed. '16, of the Court of Appeals of the Fourth Judicial District, was unopposed in his 4 primaries and seems quite likely to succeed himself on the bench of this Ohio court. Although entirely blind since the age of 14, Judge Gillen compiled an almost straight A average at Ohio University while earning two degrees within a four-year period. He continued this brilliant record at Ohio State University, from which he received a master's degree, and at Western Reserve University, from which he graduated in law. Before becoming a member of the state judiciary he had served two terms as mayor of his home town of Wellston, four terms in the state senate, and one term as judge of the common pleas court of Jackson County.

1916

L. B. BROWN, for a number of years superintendent of schools at Prospect, but since 1932 an instructor in mathematics in Cleveland's Central High School, has reported the birth of a daughter, Janice Eloise on Jan. 7, 1947. The Browns have another child, a son.

VERDA E. WILLIAMS, head of the department of household arts in Central High School, Omaha, Nebr., from 1919 to 1928 and an instructor in home economics in South High School, Omaha, from the latter year until her retirement in 1937, is now a resident of Columbus. Miss Williams did graduate work at Columbia University after receiving her Ohio University degree.

JOHN R. GODDARD is district chief clerk of the Humble Oil and Refining Co. in Corpus Christie, Texas. He has a son, Rodney, who is a junior at the University of Texas. The young fellow is a graduate of Schreiner Institute and spent about two war years in Uncle Sam's military organization.

1918

MARY D. JONES, 2-yr., former teacher in the Stafford School, Maple Heights, Cleveland, retired from professional activities in 1942 and is now living in Knoxville, Tenn.

1919

Pvt. Marvin Beckman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Beckman (ANNA SPEYER) of Little Valley, N. Y., is stationed in Korea as a member of a U. S. Army transportation unit. Mrs. Beckman is a niece of the late Mrs. BELLE EDDY MERCER, '17. Mrs. Mercer's husband, Dr. William F. Mercer, was professor of biology at Ohio University from 1899 until his death in 1929. Mrs. Mercer was, herself, an instructor in biology for three years, 1919-1922.

1920

March visitors to the campus of their alma mater included COL. JUDD T. STINCHCOMB, U. S. Army Reserves, an instructor in Culver Military Academy, and Mrs. Stinchcomb (FERN TAYLOR, '20, 2-yr.). Colonel Stinchcomb has been at the famous Indiana military school since a few days after receiving his degree in 1920.

1921

1922

Another recent visitor to the Alumni Office was Mrs. Kenneth K. Kutz (GAIL FISHEL, ex), Akron, whose chief mission to the campus was the inspection of the Ohio University chapter (Zeta) of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority. While here, Mrs. Kutz was also a guest at the chapter's International Day Banquet. Since being elected national extension chairman at the convention in Banff, Canada, last July the Ohio alumna has assisted in the installation of five new chapters of her social organization.

Florence Burroughs, 16-year-old daughter of Mrs. Robert Burroughs (MILDRED CRUMEY), Fernwood, Idaho, won honorable mention in the Westinghouse Science Talent Search contest this year. Her recognition was based partly upon an original research project on earthworms and partly on her fund of scientific knowledge. The young lady also placed first, in north Idaho, and second, in the entire state, in the William E. Borah Essay

George F. Lamb
(See Class of 1925 Notes)

Contest on the outlawry of war sponsored by the University of Idaho.

1923

MURRAY D. SHAFFER, 2-yr., state highway director in the cabinet of Ohio's Governor Thomas J. Herbert, resigned his position as of Jan. 31 to become sales manager of the Buffalo-Springfield Roller Co. in Springfield. With Governor Herbert and other prominent Ohioans in the national and state government, Mr. Shaffer was a guest at the recent Ohio Night Dinner in Washington, D. C., which was held in connection with the 36th annual meeting of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce.

Vaughn H. Chase, a special agent, in Cleveland, of the U. S. Treasury Department, accompanied Mrs. Chase (MILDRED RILEY), also of the Class of 1923, and two daughters to Tucson, Ariz., early this year for the benefit of the health of the younger child. Mr. Chase returned to his work after a brief stay in the southwest, while Mrs. Chase and the girls expect to return to their home in Lakewood in June. A son, Tom, is currently enrolled in Western Reserve University.

1924

Mrs. D. Hale Berlin (SARA FITTON, ex) is membership chairman and social director of the Main Branch of the Y.W.C.A. in San Diego, Calif. The Main Branch "Y" enrolls almost 3,000 members. Her husband is president of the San Diego Realty Board. Their daughter, Marjorie, is a first-year student in San Diego College. Mrs. Berlin is planning a visit this summer with her sister, Mrs. ESTHER FITTON FOSTER, '27, at the latter's home in Charleston, W. Va. Mrs. Foster is the widow of DONALD W. FOSTER, '24, who died Nov. 11, 1947.

Mrs. B. D. HECK (MARY PEEFERLE, 2-yr.), first grade teacher in Parkwood School, Sidney, is in her second year as president of the Elementary Teachers Association of Sidney.

1925

ROBERT H. HORN and Mrs. HORN (JEAN CAMPBELL, '25, 2-yr.) of Manhasset, Long Island, were campus visitors early in April. During their stay in Athens they made arrangements for the enrollment in their alma mater this fall of a son, Dick. Another son, Bob, a Navy veteran, is now a senior at Duke University. Mr. Horn is a son of the late CLARENCE H. HORN, '01, 2-yr., and Mrs. SARAH MURPHY HORN, '00, 2-yr., Manhasset, formerly of Athens. A lecturer in the College of Commerce for a number of years, Mr. C. H. Horn left a trust fund upon his death, the income from which provides the money for the annual Horn Senior Commerce Prize. The recent visitor is a brother of Mrs. W. M. KAUFMAN (ELIZABETH HORN, '27), Mansfield; Mrs. ROBERT S. GOODRICH (MARCELLA HORN, '32), Bear Station, Del.; and CLINTON E. HORN, '29, Garden City, Long Island.

GEORGE F. LAMB (see picture), who has been teaching business training in Roosevelt Junior High School in Hamilton since 1927, is prominent in professional affairs in his area. He is treasurer and general manager of the Hamilton Public School Employees Federal Credit Union, president of the Southwestern District Credit Union League, and president of the Hamilton Classroom Teachers Association. He is married and has two boys, 12 and 17 years of age. The older son, Rex, is slated to enter Ohio University this fall.

DR. BEULAH V. GILLASPIE, for several years director of the Sealest Laboratory Kitchen of the National Dairy Products Corp. in New York City, is now head of the department of home economics at the University of Arkansas in Fayetteville. Miss Gillaspie was awarded her Ph.D. by Columbia University last June.

1926

MARY L. MIERCE, vocational counselor in the Veterans Guidance Center at the University of Washington in Seattle, reports that she frequently meets people who inquire about Ohio University's DR. R. L. MORTON, '13, professor of education. Dr. Morton taught statistics at U. W. in the summer of 1931.

DWIGHT H. RUTHERFORD and DEAN GEORGE W. STARCHER, Ohio University classmates, have been elected president and vice president, respectively, of the Athens Rotary Club for the coming year. SOL ROSENBERG, '35x, is the new treasurer, while DR. BLAINE R. GOLDSBERRY, '14, and H. C. DORMAN, '35, are members of the club's board of directors. Mr. Rutherford is engaged in the insurance business, while Dr. Starcher is dean of University College.

1929

MILDRED M. DORR is an assistant professor and extension specialist in child development and family relations at the University of Wisconsin. She is a former assistant director of physical education for women at Muskingum College.

The Ohio Basketball Officials Association, organized early in April, has as one of its chief aims the development of uniform officiating and rules interpretation by its members. Almost 100 referees and umpires in Columbus for the 26th annual Ohio high school basketball tournament became charter members of the organization. Up until now, the state's 2,500 officials have been enrolled only in city or sectional associations. ARTHUR H. "JACK" RHOADS, assistant professor of physical welfare at Ohio University, was elected to membership on the executive committee of the OBOA.

1930

Following attendance of a meeting of the Acoustical Society of America in Washington, D. C., DR. ROBERT W.

YOUNG, with Mrs. Young, stopped off in Athens, April 26, for a visit with former campus friends. Dr. Young is a physicist with the U. S. Navy Electronics Laboratory in San Diego, Calif. Not quite five months of age, little Conrad William Young was parked with his paternal grandparents in Elkhart, Ind., during the Washington visit.

HAROLD MASON is an instructor in Middletown's Roosevelt Junior High School and assistant coach of football in the senior high school. He finished off three years of football at Ohio University in 1929 as a member of the squad that helped dedicate the new Ohio Stadium and which won the championship of the Buckeye Athletic Association. The 1929 team won national recognition by scoring 306 points and yielding only 13 points to their opponents.

1931

Mrs. A. M. LURIE (FRIEDA LEVIN) lives in Toronto, Canada, where her husband is a manufacturer of women's apparel. Mrs. Lurie received the degree of Bachelor of Music at Ohio University, majoring in violin.

ANDREW R. MANDULA is guidance counselor at the Thomas A. Edison Occupational School, a school for boys in Cleveland. Andy will be remembered as the baton-twirling drum major of Ohio University marching bands of his day.

1932

Promotion of THOMAS H. EVANS, JR., (see picture) to the position of purchasing agent of the McBee Co., Athens, has recently been announced by company officials. He had previously been assistant purchasing agent of Athens' largest industry. He came to the company in 1946 after two and one-half years in the Navy, prior to which he had been Cincinnati sales manager for the Pure Oil Co. He is the husband of the former BETTY ROCHESTER, '32x, and father of seven-year-old Thomas Hamilton, III.

1933

LUCILE A. PHILLIPS, A.M., a former high school teacher in Piqua and New Lexington, and later executive director of the Fairfield County chapter of the American Red Cross in Lancaster, has been appointed assistant to Dr. F. B. Dilley, director of admissions and university examiner at Ohio University.

Because of the well-known housing shortage, Mrs. Chester R. Rhodes (KATHRYNE KERN) has continued to live at her home in Oak Hill where she has been teaching during the current year. Mr. Rhodes, with Sears, Roebuck & Co., is now on a temporary assignment in Memphis, Tenn. Mrs. Rhodes expects to join her husband on his next assignment.

LENARD X. SADOSKY is a sales engineer with the Fletcher F. Milligan Co., manufacturers agent, in Cleveland. Mrs. Sadosky was MARY ELIZABETH KEYS, '32, 2-yr.

1934

A report, lacking any other details, has recently come to the Alumni Office of the death of A. CORLEY, March 5, 1947, in Tenn. He is survived by a wife and small daughter.

CLARA L. PONIATOWSKY, president of the Cleveland Women's Physical Education Association, presided over a recent luncheon meeting of her organization at which Mary K. Browne, one of America's most famous and best-loved sportswomen, spoke on "Better World Understanding Through Sports." Miss Browne is a former tennis champion and is noted for her work with the Red Cross during the war. BETTY M. WAGNER, '38, is program chairman this year of the C.W.P.E.A. Miss Poniatowsky is a physical education instructor in Cleveland's John Marshall High School. Miss Wagner is a physical education instructor in the Lakewood schools.

1935

GRACE E. CROW is instructor in restaurant training and tea room management in Canton's Timken Vocational High School. Open to juniors and seniors only, her work in the fundamentals of food preparation and service is carried on in an actual tea room where the students deal in realities. Members of her classes prepare and serve a luncheon, a dinner, and occasionally a tea at least once a week. They keep their linens snow white and their glassware sparkling. Girls in classes rotate duties so that the more glamorous jobs as hostess, head waitress, cashier, etc., are mingled with those involving cooking and dish washing chores. Courtesy and citizenship are stressed along with the professional art. The Canton Restaurant Association is instrumental in helping Miss Crow's graduates find jobs to their liking.

ARTHUR T. THOMAS is news editor of the East Liverpool Review. He has previously held staff positions as telegraph editor and sports writer.

GERALD B. TUTTLE and Mrs. Tuttle, the latter a graduate of De Pauw University in 1934, have adopted a youngster, David Earl Tuttle, now two and one-half years old. Residents of Youngstown, Mr. Tuttle is a sales representative of the Allied Oil Co. of Cleveland.

1936

GILBERT B. RAWSON, M.Ed., '38, is now in his second year as assistant professor of English at Furman University, Greenville, S. C. He expects to complete work on a Ph.D. degree at George Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn., in the near future. Before entering the service he was instructor in Washington Junior High School, Parkersburg, W. Va.

ROBERT L. HARTFORD, (see Births), manager of market research for the Penton Publishing Co. and secretary of the Ohio University Bobcat Club of Cleveland, was a campus visitor on April 29 and 30. He came at this time to deliver a series of lectures as a part of the program of Associated Business Papers, a national organization, which is sending its officers to schools and departments of journalism in colleges and universities throughout the country. Mr. Hartford had appeared on the campuses of six Ohio Colleges before arriving at his alma mater.

JOHN O. THOMAS, who is practicing law in Williamsport, Pa., was admitted to membership in the Tycoming County (Pa.) Bar Association on April 1. Barrister Thomas is a former special F.B.I. agent and held a Navy commission during the recent war.

1937

GEORGE K. NICKLES is resident director of music at Mohawk College, Utica, N.Y.,

Nurse Virginia Voorhees at Lennox Hill Hospital
(See Class of 1946 Notes)

and JOHN HENLE, '46, a psychometrist at Champlain College, Plattsburg, N.Y. The two institutions, together with Sampson College near Geneva, N.Y., comprise the Associated Colleges of Upper New York which opened in 1946 to accommodate veterans and others crowded out of established institutions.

The husband of Mrs. William O. Nicholls (CHARLOTTE STAMPER) is property and insurance manager at Syracuse University, Syracuse, N.Y.

GEORGE H. RUSSELL is a special agent, in Columbus, of the Continental Casualty Co.

1938

LEWIS L. SABO, who was athletic director and instructor in biology in the high school at Chesterville before a period of service with the Navy, is now teaching in a school in Spokane, Wash.

PAUL A. BELKNAP is secretary-treasurer of the Charleston Rubber Co., Charleston, S. Car., a company which he helped organize and which specializes in the manufacture of safety equipment for electricians. Mrs. Belknep was BARBARA SILVER, '39, before her marriage.

LAWRENCE A. KEHLER is administrative officer at the Army's Letterkenny Ordnance Depot in Chambersburg, Pa.

1939

ROBERT W. REIDER is editor and manager of the Ottawa County Exponent, published at Oak Harbor, which carried off major honors in its classification at the twenty-fifth newspaper show of the Ohio Newspaper Association in February. The paper was awarded first place for general excellence, as well as first place for makeup, and second place for special editions.

ROBERT L. FULLER is assistant district credit manager of the Sherwin-Williams Company (paints, varnishes, etc.) in Cleveland. He is enrolled in the Cleveland-Marshall Law School, which he attends two nights a week, and spent seven months last year at the Jefferson School of Law in Louisville, Ky. A World War II Marine Corps officer, he is now in the Corps' inactive reserve and spends one night a week on military matters. Mrs. Fuller, who was GRACE WENTZ, '35, worked for the General Motors Parts Division in Louisville last year and is now employed in the same division in Cleveland.

Mrs. Daniel F. Hensinger, Jr. (CATHERINE PAINTER) is a resident of Bellevue, her home town, where her husband is associated with the Red Star Transit Co. of Detroit. Mrs. Hensinger has little to be ashamed of as far as her scholastic record at Ohio University is concerned. She earned scholarships during each of the four years of her attendance; was a member and president of Eta Sigma Phi, classical languages society; won the Super Greek Prize, and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. Not bad. Not bad.

1940

LEONARD J. JANIAK, former Ohio University Bobcat and Cleveland Rams football star, has been named head coach of four sports at St. Stanislaus High School in his home city of Cleveland. Until his football coaching duties begin in August Len will continue on a part-time basis as a member of the personnel department of the Thompson Products Co. St. Stanislaus is a member school of the Catholic Congress, an association of six Catholic high schools in the Cleveland area.

A change of occupational activity has been recorded for CHARLES "SCOTTIE" MARTINDALE. Formerly in the sales department of the Thomas & Skinner Steel Products Co., Indianapolis, he is now an assistant in the general superintendent's office of the Acme-Evans Co., Inc., flour millers in the capital of the Hoosier state.

CAPT. JACK C. PRITCHARD, ex, stationed in Vienna, Austria, talked by telephone with his mother in Nelsonville on March 3. The call is reported to have come through in an amazingly brief time and the Army man's voice was clearly heard. Mrs. Pritchard also had the thrill of talking with her daughter-in-law, the former BETTY GREENE, '43, and with her little granddaughter, Charlene.

WILLIAM A. RODGERS, president of Basic Construction Materials, a Chillicothe manufacturing concern, is a frequent visitor in Athens where his company has a number of orders for its products. President Rodgers, husband of the former RUTH SMITH, '44, was a tackle on Bobcat football teams of his day.

1941

FIRST LT. CHARLES W. "BILL" ROSE (see picture) is to be seen with the son, Michael William, whose birth, last Christmas Day, was reported in the March Alumnus. The father, still a patient at Brooke General Hospital, Fort Sam Houston, Texas, is hopeful that he will be discharged in the not too distant future. He suffered a badly crushed leg when the B-25 which he was piloting crashed on Okinawa early in 1945. His life was saved by the heroic work of his crew who pulled him from the burning plane. After seeing the insides of a number of army hospitals he received a 90-day leave about Christmas time a year ago and while on his way home to Marietta he was involved in an automobile accident in which his bad leg was broken again.

Lieut. Charles W. Rose and Son

The picture, on the next page, of JOHN H. ROBINSON and Mrs. Robinson (VULVA MCCOY, '40) was received too late for use with the note concerning them in last month's issue of The Ohio Alumnus. As reported, Mr. and Mrs. Robinson are on their way to Hawaii where the former will establish a law practice. Since their visit to the Ohio University campus they have made a leisurely trip across the continent and will fly to the "Paradise of the Pacific."

DAVID A. HAMILTON is located in Indianapolis, Ind., as a power apparatus specialist with the General Electric Supply Corporation.

Since his discharge from the Army Medical Corps DR. JOHN G. O'BRIEN has been surgeon of the S. S. America, a luxury passenger liner which plies between New York City, Cobh, Ireland, Cherbourg, France, and Southampton, England. On July 1, Dr. O'Brien expects to return to Kings County Hospital in Brooklyn to again become resident obstetrician and gynecologist, a position which he held before going into the Army.

1942

JOSEPH P. MARA and his bride of last

August 10 are pictured on page 17. Space for the picture was lacking in the March Alumnus which carried the report of the wedding. Mr. Mara is a teacher in the Perth Amboy, N.J., high school. Mrs. Mara owns and operates a dance studio in New Brunswick, N.J.

Mrs. Kenneth E. Fritz (BETTY WILTSI) appears with four-months' old Kenneth Edward, II, in the picture on this page. The husband and father is a junior-veteran in Ohio University. Mrs. Fritz, who completed a course in camp fire administration at New York University's Graduate School at Lake Sebago, N.Y., has been active in Girl Scout work during her residence in Athens. Her father is professor of electrical engineering at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute.

Mrs. John Hammond (MARJORIE SMITH), whose marriage took place away back in 1943 but did not come to the attention of the Alumni Office until early this year, is a resident of McConnellsville where her husband is a partner in a hardware firm with stores located in that city, Stockport, and Chesterhill.

Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas (ELMYRA MARGARET RICKERT) of Cleveland were expecting to take up residence in California in April. Mr. Thomas has been an aeronautical engineer at the Cleveland Municipal Airport.

1943

"Call Me Doctor" was the name of a three-act comedy-drama written and produced by MRS. ERNESTINE BEEBE DONALDY as the thesis requirement for an A.M. degree which she will receive from Kent State University in June. Appropriately enough, and as the title implies, the play is about doctors. The author is the wife of DR. WILLIAM J. DONALDY, '42, who has just completed his internship at Huron Road Hospital, East Cleveland, and who will soon begin a residency at Cleveland's Deaconess Hospital. Mrs. DonalDY is the first student at Kent State to have produced a play from start to finish—including writing, casting, and directing. She is a graduate student in the School of Speech. The Donaldys are planning an automobile trip to Oregon in the month of June.

LT. (J.G.) JOHN J. FRITZ, of the Navy Dental Corps, is serving with the Post Dental Detachment at the Marine Recruiting Depot, Parris Island, S. Car. He received his D.D.S. degree at Western Reserve University last September.

On March 6, Mrs. Evelyn Brandeberry flew from San Francisco to Guam to join her husband, DR. KEITH R. BRANDEBERRY, a physician in Guam Memorial Hospital. A graduate of the Western Reserve University Medical School in 1946, the Ohio University man served in the naval hospital at Great Lakes, Ill., before going to his present position in the Pacific. Dr. Brandeberry was enroute 18 days by boat, while his wife made the hop by plane in 20 hours. Mrs. Brandeberry is a registered nurse and is now on the same staff as her husband.

RAYMOND H. RALSTON, with the Insurance Service Division of the Veterans Administration in Columbus, was a vocal soloist on the program of a Pop Concert held in Memorial Hall on January 24. While in the Army he was associated with Ken Stevens, vocalist with Wayne King's Orchestra, in weekly broadcasts from Camp Chaffee, Ark. Later, when overseas, he was featured with the 12th Army Group Chorus several of whose programs were broadcast to the United States from France and Germany.

Mrs. Lawrence A. Hughes (GLENN MILLER) and her husband are both employed at the Army Air Forces' 831st

Mrs. Kenneth E. Fritz and Son
(See Class of 1942 Notes)

Specialized Depot at Shelby, the former as an I.B.M. key punch operator. Mrs. Hughes taught mathematics in the high school at New Straitsville for two years after graduation, and in 1945 began work for the A.A.F. at Patterson Field near Dayton. She was married June 28, 1947.

1944

STAFF SGT. WARREN L. MORGAN has received a direct commission as a second lieutenant in the Air Corps Reserve. His first assignment since commissioning was to the Army Information School at Carlisle, Pa., where he was instructed in the procedures for counseling soldiers in their education courses and the various lectures on subjects of a military nature and of current international topics. Sgt. Morgan returned to the States last July from duty in Korea. He is a former history instructor in high schools in Northeast, Pa., and Hamburg, N.Y.

While working on a master's degree in history at Columbia University, New York City, MARY J. PUGH is serving as assistant to the director of Columbia's Academy of Political Science.

DR. BENJAMIN ALPERT, ex. has opened an office for the practice of dentistry at 8 Summit Avenue, Hackensack, N.J., his home city.

1945

Mrs. George C. Wayland (JEANNE YOUNG) is a radio copywriter for the Julian A. Krupnick Co. in Columbus.

RITA M. VANEK is a dietitian at the Veterans Administration hospital in Downey, Ill.

MARGARET J. WEBSTER is a planning clerk with National Litho-Forms in Cleveland.

MRS. 2/c RICHARD C. GROVES, ex, whose six-year enlistment in the regular Navy will be up next October, was a member of the 50-piece United States Navy Band which gave matinee and evening concerts in Alumni Memorial Auditorium on April 1. A graduate of the U. S. Navy School of Music in Washington, D. C., he plays the clarinet and alto saxophone and is a vocal soloist. He saw overseas service during the war.

1946

VIRGINIA VOORHEES, ex (see picture on page 18), who graduated with high honors last year from the Lennox Hill Hospital School of Nursing in New York City, is now a member of the hospital staff and is engaged in work for a Bachelor of Science degree at Columbia University on a scholarship granted by her hospital. Miss Voorhees was featured in each of nine pictures that appeared in a two-page article in the Jan. 18 issue of PARADE, a Sunday picture magazine to be found in a large number of newspapers. The PARADE article called attention to the fact that the acute wartime shortage of nurses still persists, the present shortage being reliably estimated at well in excess of 100,000. In the series of pictures Miss Voorhees was shown in activities that characterize the undergraduate nurse's curriculum. The one reproduced in The Ohio Alumnus shows her in student nurse uniform offering water to a patient in an oxygen tent.

RICHARD C. SOLIDAY, who used to be with United Airlines in Los Angeles, is now a junior executive with The Coleman Co. (furnaces, camp equipment, etc.) in the Southern California metropolis. He and Mrs. Soliday (SHIRLEY BUHOPE, '44) are living in a newly purchased home in Compton.

INGEBORG M. BAHLKE is a graduate assistant in the chemistry department of the University of Southern California in Los Angeles. Before going to the West Coast last fall she was engaged in chemical development work with Ciba Pharmaceutical Products, Inc., in Summit, N. J.

EDWARD SHNAYERSON is a senior medical student at the University of Arkansas School of Medicine in Little Rock. Mr. Shnayerson's father is a physician in Brooklyn, N.Y.

JAMES F. REID, JR., is located away out at Davis Dam, Nev., as an engineer with the U. S. Bureau of Reclamation.

Deaths

LULU FAYE MOFFITT

LULU F. MOFFITT, '16, 2-yr. (see picture), retired member of the teaching staff of Mound Junior High School, Columbus, died Jan. 15, 1948, at her home in Mt. Vernon following an extended illness. She had taught home economics in the Columbus schools for 25 years, giving up her work in 1940.

Miss Moffitt was a founder and first president of the Ohio University chapter (Xi chapter) of Alpha Delta Pi sorority. Funeral services were held in Mt. Vernon, with burial in that city.

FRANCES NORTON PRICE

Mrs. Samuel C. Price (FRANCES NORTON, '91), Mt. Clemens, Mich., owner and publisher of the Mt. Clemens Daily Leader for almost 30 years, and her brother, Douglas Norton, a Detroit resident, died on the same day, April 4, 1948. The former was 79 years of age at the time of her death.

Mrs. Price, a great-great-granddaughter of General Israel Putnam, was a member of an old Athens family. She went to Mt. Clemens with her husband who was superintendent of the schools there and owner of The Leader. Mrs. Price assumed direction of the newspaper upon Mr. Price's death in 1913 and continued in control of the publication until 1942.

The deceased was a sister of Dr. W. H. NORTON, '06, for many years a physician in Mt. Clemens. She is survived by a son, S. Norton Price.

EUNICE FINK PATCH

EUNICE F. PATCH, '13, 2-yr., age 60, died at her home in Cleveland, Jan. 1, 1948.

She was a native of Bremen and in recent years had held positions in Columbus and Cleveland; in the former city as bookkeeper at the Ohio Elevator Co., and in the latter as hostess at the Union Department Store. Burial was made in Bremen.

HARRY WESTCOTT ROACH

H. WESTCOTT ROACH, '23, Athens, real estate operator and husband of an Ohio University faculty member, died in Sheltering Arms Hospital, April 19, 1948, following an illness of two weeks' duration.

Fifty years of age, he was a native and lifelong resident of Athens and a member of a pioneer family of the community.

He was a veteran of World War I, having served, with many other Ohio University men, in Battery A of the 136th Field Artillery, a 37th Division unit.

In 1935, Mr. Roach married Miss HELEN HEDDEN, assistant professor of voice in the School of Music. Mrs. Roach is a graduate of the Cincinnati Conservatory School of Music and has been a member of the local faculty since 1922. She received an A.B. degree from Ohio University in 1936.

Besides his widow, Mr. Roach is survived by three sisters: Mrs. Fred Legal (ALDINE ROACH, '09x), Zanesville; LOUISE P. ROACH, '11, 2-yr., Athens, and HAZEL P. ROACH, '17, also of Athens.

JOHN ROY RICHARDS

CLARK McCURDY, '28, a teacher in Roosevelt Junior High School, Zanesville, has reported the death of JOHN R. RICHARDS, '12, a former principal of the school. The date of death was not given in the communication.

The deceased should not be confused with JOHN C. RICHARDS, also of the Class of 1912, who is a teacher in a Lakewood high school.

Mr. J. R. Richards was 65 years of age and a native of Zanesville. He had obtained an A.B. degree from a Lutheran college in Pennsylvania before entering Ohio University. He was a teacher in Euclid for five years prior to becoming associated with the Zanesville schools in 1917.

FRANK LEO MOZDY

A telegram received by fraternity brothers at about the time The Ohio Alumnus was going to press brought the sad news of the death, May 8, 1948, of Dr. FRANK L. MOZDY, a physician for more than a decade in his home city of Erie, Pa. It is expected that further details will be available for publication in the May Alumnus.

FRANKLIN E. A. LOEW

A delayed report has reached the Alumni Office of an official pronouncement of death in the case of Franklin E. A. Loew (formerly Aiello), '40, Cleveland, who was reported missing on a bombing mission over Burma, Oct. 24, 1944. The War Department declaration was made in spite of the fact that no positive evidence of the death of Corporal Loew or of his cremates has been found. The Ohio University man was a tail gunner and aerial photographer on a B-25.
